package.json	package-lock.json
Contains relevant metadata for your project including dependancies, helper scripts and other general metadata.	an auto generated file that describes the exact state of your application dependancies the last time packages where added or modified. More specifically it guarantees the order of package installations between users - hence why it is recommended to be git committed.
generated when initialize npm	generated when running npm to install packages.